the multivariate spline method for scattered data fitting ... - multivariate splines for data fitting and pde's 25 §0. introduction multivariate spline functions are piecewise polynomial functions which have certain smoothness over given polygonal domains. they are very flexible for approximating known or unknown functions or any given data sets. for example, finite elements are typical spline ... multivariate spline functions and their applications - spline functions, and the multivariate functions in computer aided geometric designs. this book will systematically introduce the basic theories and methods on the multivariate spline functions. in order for reader to know the frontier research on multivariate spline functions, we will also in spline functions and multivariate interpolations - gbv - multivariate β -splines and truncated powers 9.1. a geometric interpretation of univariate s-splines and truncated powers 9.2. multivariate 5-splines and truncated powers 9.3. recurrence relations for 5-splines 9.4. ridge functions notes and references chapter 10. multivariate spline functions and divided differences 10.1. multivariate spline ... spline functions and multivariate interpolations - springer - multivariate b-splines and truncated powers 132 9.1. a geometric interpretation of univariate b-splines and truncated powers 132 9.2. multivariate b-splines and truncated powers 137 9.3. recurrence relations for b-splines 142 9.4. ridge functions 147 notes and references 148 chapter 10. multivariate spline functions and divided differences 149 multivariate regression splines - national chiao tung ... - multivariate regression splines lin-an chen institute of statistics, national chiao tung university, hsinchu, 30050, taiwan ... the mean squares errors for the multivariate regression spline models and the multivariate polynomial models show the need of employing the multivariate regression splines in the approximation of the ... the functions ... multivariate epi-splines and evolving function ... - problems, and establishes their properties. §4 extends the results to approximating functions obtained by the composition of a monotonic function with an epi-spline. §5 discusses formulation of constraints in function identification problems, for example using extrinsic information about the actual function.
